- Apprentices must be given opportunity to carry out OTJ activity for approximately 6 hours a week (1 day).
- It can be delivered flexibly, for example, as a part of each day, one day per week, one week out of five or as block release.
- It needs to take place within their normal working hours.
- Courses completed prior to enrolment will not count as OTJ.

What Counts as Off The Job?

Off-the-job development includes:

- University attendance and e-learning
- Assignment development and write-up (in work time)
- Work-based projects
- Shadowing, mentoring and development tasks (this may relate to a skill you need to develop)
- Study skills workshops/webinars
- Work and industry visits
- Training courses and competitions
- Practical training which involves new learning
- Employer induction programme (if it is new learning)
- Reflections on learning
- Reading (related to the standard)
- Development that supports the STANDARD

It does not include:

- Time spent on the initial assessment and on onboarding activities
- Progress reviews
