Corporate Responsibility and Sustainability Practitioner Apprenticeship

Drive forward innovative and ambitious social and environmental change in your organisation with our one-year* apprenticeship.

About this programme

The Corporate Responsibility and Sustainability Practitioner Apprenticeship enables apprentices to be a social conscience for the organisation, helping to innovate and drive ambitions for social and environmental change. They will make these a reality that are embedded and implemented across the organisation.

In recognition of the critical role education and skills play in responding to climate change, this apprenticeship has been selected as one of six green apprenticeships in honour of His Majesty The King's Coronation.

*plus end-point assessment

Apprentices will gain vital knowledge and green skills to:

- champion the sustainability agenda by facilitating change, educating others and positively contributing towards social and environmental outcomes for their workplace and their community
- implement social and environmental change policies to meet the organisation's need
- boost their organisation's impact on the planet and to enhance their own career
- meet the demand across sectors and industries
- foster a culture of sustainability within their organisation

Delivery method

This blended learning programme is taught through tutor-supported online study and learning, with one on-campus study block per module. Apprentices will spend eight face-to-face immersive days at our prestigious, triple accredited Business School in central Manchester for tutorials, workshops and masterclasses.

The programme is delivered part-time over 12 months (excluding end-point assessment), with an additional four months to consolidate the portfolio and produce the project required for the end-point assessment.

An Outstanding provider*

Manchester Metropolitan University is a leading provider of degree apprenticeships. We partner with over 540 national and local organisations to give apprentices the opportunity to earn while they learn, and to develop the skills employers want and need.

Our practice-focused programmes equip apprentices with the skills to ensure they are ready to take on the industrial challenges of tomorrow, make a tangible workplace impact, and allow organisations to overcome skills shortages.

*Rated Outstanding by Ofsted in 2018 and 2022 and the top university provider of degree apprenticeships at the RateMyApprenticeship Awards 2019-2023.
